A lawsuit has been filed against you. You have 20 calendar days after this summons is served on you to file a written response to the attached complaint/petition with the clerk of this circuit court, located at: 201 SE 6th Street Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33301

A phone call will not protect you. Your written response, including the case number given above and the names of the parties, must be filed if you want the Court to hear your side of the case.

If you do not file your written response on time, you may lose the case, and your wages, money, and property may be taken thereafter without further warning from the Court. There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may call an attorney referral service or a legal aid office (listed in the phone book).

If you choose to file a written response yourself, at the same time you file your written response to the Court, you must also serve a copy of your response on the party serving this summons at: Kara Vaval, Esq., Vaval Law, 8201 Peters Road, Suite 1000, Plantation, FL 33324

If the party serving summons has designated email address(es) for service or is represented by an attorney, you may designate email address(es) for service by or on you. Service must be in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516. Filing # 125545492 E-Filed 04/25/2021 12:21:13 AM

Copies of all court documents in this case, including orders, are available at the Clerk of the Circuit Court's office. You may review these documents, upon request.

You must keep the Clerk of the Circuit Court's office notified of your current address. (You may file Designation of Current Mailing and Email Address, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.915.) Future papers in this lawsuit will be mailed to the address on record at the clerk's office.

WARNING: Rule 12.285, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure, requires certain automatic disclosure of documents and information. Failure to comply can result in sanctions, including dismissal or striking of pleadings.

June that international travel would not return to 2019 levels of nearly 80 million visitors until 2024. Foreign travelers dropped to 19 million in 2020 and is expected to rise a bit this year, to more than 26 million; it will more than double, to about 57 million, in 2022 but still fall far short of its pre-pandemic heights.

The U.S. isn't alone in trying to jump-start travel as more people get vaccinated. Some countries that closed their borders have begun easing back, like Australia, India and Thailand; Europe opened its doors to Americans months ago.

Others, like China and Japan, remain essentially closed, which makes it difficult for their own citizens to leave and come back because of mandatory quarantines. In 2019, the two countries were among the top five biggest sources of overseas visitors to the U.S., along with the U.K., South Korea and Brazil, according to U.S. government data.

"We cannot disappoint all those generations before us by letting it close down," he said. The thought has echoed around the region where hundreds of thousands lost their lives during the four years of fighting which finally led to the victory of allied forces over Germany.

Cannabis

Nation Central, which connects governments and international businesses to Israeli entrepreneurs, and which hosted Duque for a panel discussion on Tuesday.

One opportunity is cannabis.

In July, Colombia lifted an export ban on dried cannabis flower. Duque said his country is looking to harness derivatives for everything from medical treatments and food production to cosmetics. "We're seeing a lot of international investment coming to Colombia," said Duque, who will be replaced following a presidential election next year.

Israel might be able to lend a hand. Medical marijuana was legalized years ago, and more than 100,000 Israelis — out of a population of over 9 million — are licensed users. Israel approved marijuana exports in 2019, becoming only the third country to do so.

Israel boasts more than 110 cannabis tech companies, mostly in the health sector, that have attracted nearly $350 million in investment since 2015, according to Start-Up Nation Central. Israel is also among the largest importers of medical cannabis flower.

Duque says there's a difference between harnessing beneficial components from drugs and lifting prohibition completely.

"We're not using cannabis for recreational purposes. We're using it for medical purposes," he said.

For Duque, who fashions himself a law-and-order conservative, standing up for cannabis in a country that has been the linchpin of the U.S.-led drug war for decades is more than a little out of character. He took office decrying how drugs "destroy" families and as president signed a decree banning possession of drugs in public spaces, challenging a ruling by the nation's top court that allows Colombians to carry small amounts of marijuana, cocaine and other drugs.

He's also committed to resuming aerial eradication of coca crops that are behind a record surge in cocaine production, although legal challenges and protests by farmers in remote areas have prevented him from realizing that goal.

reality of alternative energy capacity constraints and the need to reduce emissions from essential fossil fuels.

Even with these difficulties, the outlook for expansion in the decades to come is positive. The Perryman Group's most recent long-term projections indicate that over the 2020 to 2045 period, real gross product will likely expand from an estimated $18.4 trillion to $38.1 trillion, a 2.95% compound annual rate of growth. Employment is forecast to rise by 1.67% per year on average over the period, leading to the creation of 73.3 million net new jobs and total employment of 216.3 million by 2045. While the effects of the pandemic and its aftermath will persist over the coming years, the worst of the economic downturn appears to have passed. Despite the daunting challenges which must be addressed, the US economy is expected to continue to recover and see significant growth over an extended forecast horizon. Stay safe!
