decide whether to allow chaplains, who could be employees or volunteers. The bill would not require chaplains to be trained in student counseling or certified by the state Board of Education, but the author of the measure has said school districts would be allowed to set their own rules.

The bill comes amid a broader push nationally among some conservatives to insert religion into public life, notably public schools, after last year's U.S. Supreme Court ruling in favor of a high school football coach who led prayers with his players in Washington state.

A separate measure that would have required public schools to post the Ten Commandments in every classroom expired without a final vote. The legislative session ends Monday.

Typhoon

winds are 74 mph (119 kph) or more. Hurricanes are spawned east of the international date line. Typhoons develop west of the line. They are known as cyclones in the Indian Ocean and Australia.

microburst – Occurs when a mass of cooled air rushes downward out of a thunderstorm, hits the ground and rushes outward in all directions.

polar vortex – Usually refers to the gigantic circular upper air weather pattern in the Arctic region, enveloping the North Pole (but it can apply to the South Pole, too). It is a normal pattern that is stronger in the winter and keeps some of the coldest weather bottled up near the North Pole. The jet stream usually pens the polar vortex in and keeps it north. But at times some of the vortex can break off or move south, bringing unusually cold weather south and permitting warmer weather to move north.

snow squall – An intense but short-lived period of moderate to heavy snowfall, with strong winds and possible lightning.

storm surge – An abnormal rise of water above the normal tide, generated by a storm.

super typhoon – A typhoon with maximum sustained winds of 150 mph (241 kph) or stronger. Some places in Asia have lower wind thresholds.

tornado – A violent rotating column of air forming a pendant, usually from a cumulonimbus cloud, and touching the ground. On a local scale, it is the most destructive of all atmospheric phenomena. Tornadoes can appear from any direction, but in the U.S. most move from southwest to northeast. Measured on F-scale from EF0 to EF5, which considers 28 different types of damage to structures and trees. An EF2 or higher is considered a significant tornado.

tornado warning – National Weather Service issues to warn public of existing tornado.

tornado watch – Alerts public to possibility of tornado forming.

tropical depression – A tropical cyclone in which the maximum sustained surface wind is 38 mph (61 kph) or less.

tropical storm – A warm-core tropical cyclone in which the maximum sustained surface winds range from 39 mph (63 kph) to 73 mph (117 kph).

nor'easter – The term used by the National Weather Service for storms that either exit or move north along the East Coast, producing winds blowing from the northeast.

waterspout – A tornado over water.

wind chill factor – A calculation that describes the combined effect of the wind and cold temperatures on exposed skin.

wind shear – A sudden shift in wind direction and/or speed.

benefits and $12 billion in veterans benefits, according to a BPC analysis of Daily Treasury Statements.

On the next day, the agency will have to pay out $27 billion in Social Security and Medicaid payments.

WHAT ELSE CAN AFFECT THE X-DATE?

All sorts of factors – even the weather.

This year, for example, taxpayers in areas that experienced weather disasters – including California, New York and large swaths of the South – have been granted filing extensions for the 2022 tax season.

That means delayed income tax payments coming in that can reduce cash flow.

A big infusion of quarterly tax payments is expected to come in on June 15, which could help tide the country over for weeks if the Treasury can hold out that long. But that's looking increasingly less likely.
